

I live 90 miles from NYC and I travel into the city very often. I use XM's weather and traffic information because the area that I live in not only does not receive radio signals very well they do not cover the area around NYC. It helps to know this information before I set out on my trip. This is my choice as a consumer and I feel that to limit my choice because of politics and lobbyists cuts into the true purpose of democracy and capitalism which have gone hand and hand in this country. You cannot stop change but you can adjust to it. That is what the National Association of Broadcasters should be doing instead of limiting the consumer's choices.
